North State Bank to Sponsor Poe Center Annual Meeting

This Marks the Third Year of the Bank's Continued Support of the Poe Center

Raleigh, N.C. – The Alice Aycock Poe Center for Health Education is pleased to announce that North State Bank will sponsor the 2013 Annual Meeting on Wednesday, September 18 at the $1,000 level. This marks the third year that North State Bank has extended its support to the Poe Center for the event.

Barbara Doolittle, Senior Vice President and Commercial Banker at North State Bank is also an active member on the Poe Center Board of Directors. The Board of Directors works hard to ensure that the Poe Center continues to effectively serve North Carolinians and recently underwent an extensive strategic planning process.

“The Poe Center is grateful to have North State Bank’s continued support,” said Poe Center Executive Director Ann Rollins. “We rely on the generosity of our community to continue serving North Carolina’s children and families.”

The Annual Meeting provides community members a window into the Poe Center’s work during 2012-2013 while recognizing the individuals and groups that contributed to these efforts. It also allows the business community to publicly support the Poe Center’s needs and community health.

The event includes breakfast at the Poe Center’s unique Raleigh facility and a keynote speaker. Gale Adcock, Chief Health Officer at the SAS Institute and Cary Town Council Member will address the topic, A Year of Good Health. The Annual Meeting is a unique event with networking opportunities.
